WEDNESDAY, NOV. 18, 1857.

THE COURT OF CLAIMS .- We have repeatedly discussed the merits and operation of this Court in our columns, and, though our readers are doubtless sufficiently familiar with both, we shall venture to refer briefly to the subject again. Its great importance can scarcely be doubted even by the most casual observer of affairs. Justice, economy, the best intere ts of Congress, and the fair fame of the Government in the eye of its own citizeus, palpably unite to render it of capital moment. It is manifestly a subject of pervading consequence—one in which any citizen may become personally interested at some time, and in which everybody who cares anything for the public welfare, or, indeed, whether he does or not, is generally and very deeply interested at all times. For so urgent a matter, It has, we think, received much too little attention from the press. This is particularly to be regretted inasinnch as a full and pointed expression of public opinion promises to effectually correct the only or at least the principal evil which obstructs the successful operation of the Court. We refer to the absurd, unjust, and scandalous practice of Congress in tearing up and reviewing all decisions in favor of claimants, while affirming all adverse decisions without hesitation or inquiry. This practice is an outrageous one, and deserves the sharpest and most emphatic rebuke of the press. It is the point to which we wish especially to direct the attention of our read-

We presume there can be no dispute about the fact of this extremely shabby practice. It unquestionably exists. And as little uncertainty can there be concerning its extent. We have seen it stated on excellent authority, and we have no oubt in the world of the truth of the statement that in every solitary instance where the Court has reported an adverse decision, that is, a decision against the claimant, Congress has confirmed it without ever asking a question; while on the other hand, when the Court reports a favorable decision, Congress invariably opens up the whole case afresh, of Arc, Maid of Oricans. Isabelia of Castile, the reported an adverse decision, that is, a decision goes into an examination and discussion of the law and the facts, in committees and before both Houses, and, finally, after practically ignoring the very existence of the Court, affirms or reverses the decision as the whim happens to strike it. This, in truth, is the testimony of all who have had anything to do with the prosecution of demands against the Government since the organization of the Court of Claims, either as principals or agents. and of hundreds of other intelligent witnesses. professional and otherwise, whom pleasure or daty has called to Washington during the session of the Court. Everybody, in short, tells the same story, and nobody tells any other. There can't be any reasonable doubt about it. It is a despicable truth.

The injustice of this practice is too gross to require particular exposure. It is, in fact, not only gross, but contemptible. It violates the sense of manliness as well as the moral sense of every rightly constituted mind. Through it, as has been justly said, Congress virtually says to the claimant: "We have provided a Court to investigate your claim; go and employ counsel to prosecute your case there; incur the expense of printing your petition and briefs and collecting your testimony; and when the Court shall United States. He says that he will permit the have heard the arguments on both sides, and fully considered your case, if its decision shall be against you, that decision shall be final, and you shall be forever barred from again setting up your claim. But if, on the other hand, the decision shall be in your favor, then you may come back to us, and we will examine your claim in our committees, and discuss it in both Houses, and finally do just as we please about allowing or rejecting it." A practice so utterly at war with every conception of fair-dealing is noworthy of any respectable body. In the Legislature of a great nation it is hardly less than infamous. It is perfectly intolerable. Aside from its atrocious wrong, its direct and vigorous tendency to bring the Conrt of Claims into discredit and disgrace is obvious. In effect, it annihilates the Court sion that, if not immediately, a separation between as an active tribunal, converting it into an expensive puppet, serving only to complicate and vex will be the inevitable result.

questions which Congress after all reserves to itself ing to its own supreme pleasure. Under the shameful the most part iuto an empty farce. It defeats not was expressly organized; namely, the transferring the Government from the unwieldy and inefficient inquisition of Congress to a special tribunal the court a cruel mockery. And what aggravates all hands, that the court of claims is one of the most upright and capable tribunals in the nation. The action of Congress is pure enormity. "No court in this country," says a distinguished authority, "has ever examined cases more elaborately or thorof every man at all familiar with its proceedings or its members will echo the opiniou. There is really no shadow of excuse for the misconduct of Congress iu this matter. It is totally indefensible. The evil that an end was put to it.

The remedy is plain. We have already hinted it. Let the press but hold up the monstrous scandal fairly to the public eye, and it will vauish like goblins before the beams of morning. We invoke the press to discharge its whole duty in the case.

A SPLENDID NEW GIFT BOOK.—We have re ceived from the publishers, D. Appleton & Co., of New York, specimen sheets of a splendid new gift book, which they have now in press, entitled "World-Noted Women, or types of particular womanly attributes in all lands and ages." It is to be published in the same style as "The Republican Court of Washington," magnificently bound in antique morocco, and will contain seventeen elegant steel engravings, designed by Charles Staal, by whom were designed the splendid engravings of "The Women of the Bible," and executed by the very best artists. The following celebrated women will be represented in the illustrations:

St. Cecilia, the patroness of music. Helcise, wite of Abelard. Laura, the beloved of Petrarch, the Italian poet. Valentina of Milan, a beautiful and celebrated Queen of Spain. Lady Jane Grey, headed at seventeen years of age. Pocahontas, heroic Indian woman, the first Indian convert to Christiauity. Duchess de la Valiere, a lovely woman of the Court of Louis XIV. Maria Theresa, Queen of Austria and Hungary. Catherine II of Russia. Florence Nightingale, an angel of good-Christiauity. Duchess de la Valiere.

This volume will present a galaxy of noted women whose fame has filled the earth and made their names imperishable.

The text of this work has been prepared by the distinguished authoress, Mary Cowden Clarke. The selection has been made not so much with a view to present a gallery of female beauty, but to exhibit the distinct types of particular attributes of womankind by which the possessors have been rendered renowned or notorious, and to show the curious links of historic association between many of these "world-noted women." It will be one of the most splendid and tastefully got-up gift books ever published.

IMPORTANT NEWS FROM LITARIATUR MORNONS IN REBELLION.-We refer to the Washington dispatch, which gives authentic intelligence that Brigham Young has bid defiance to the authorities of the troops to remain in Utah during the winter and furnish them with provisions provided they give up their arms and ammunition. We doubt very much whether anything can be done with the Mormons this winter.

THE MONEY MARKET - RESUMPTION OF THE NEW ORLEANS BANKS .- There is no change whatever to notice in the money market here. A private dispatch received from New Orleans last evening, announces that the free banks have all resumed spe cie payments. Cotton was 1/2 cent lower.

The Methodist Protestant Convention, which has been in session at Cincinnati, adjourned on Monday. The Cincinnati Gazette comes to the concluthe Northern and Sonthern portions of the conference

A CHARITABLE MOVEMENT.—We understand that the trustees of the City Hospital have expressed their willingness to supply medicines grates to the needy poor during the coming winter. There are numbers of poor people in our city who are unable to pay for medical attention or even to purchase medicines amidst the privations by which they are surrounded during the winter months, and this benevoleut and praiseworthy proposition on the part of the trustees of the hospital will afford incalculable relief to those whose poverty is aggravated by sickness and physical suffering. The movement merits universal approbation. It has been nobly seconded by Drs. Goldsmith of the Keutucky School of Medicine and Rogers of the Medical Department of the University of Louisville, who have promptly teudered their services to give medical advice grates to the poor. Dr. Goldsmith will be in attendance at 9 A. M. each day, and will also perform such surgical operations as may be required, and Dr. Rogers will be in attendance at 3 P. M. of each day and may be consulted by patients who need medical attentiou.

CONCERT LAST NIGHT .- A large and attentive audience assembled at the Church last night, to enjoy the promised concert. The cry of hard times does not seem to prevent the gratification of the musical taste of our citizens. The object of the concert, however, in this case helped to fill the house. Yet music of so superior a quality we have no doubt would at any time, of itself bring out a large assemblage. Mr. Gunter actel as director and Mr. Zoller presided at the organ. The professional singers were Miss Colliere, M. Colliere, and Mr. Whipple. Miss Colliere's style is excellent and her voice has been cultivated to a ligh degree. Mons. Colliere entrances all of his hearers with his splendid voice and perfect musical education. The many friends of Mr. Whipple were never more delighted with his clear voice and distinct enunciation, than on this occasion. His solo of "The Last Man" was was a prominent feature of the evening. The amateurs were in fine voice and sang their respective parts in an excellent mauner.

DEATH OF L. W. FISKE,-We are pained to announce the death of this gentleman, which occurred at Chicago last Wednesday. We learn from Mr. Alfred Nauts, who came from Chicago last night, that Mr. Fiske was of the firm of B. Smith Jones. & Co , lumber dealers, who were doing a lucrative business. He had taken one of his partners home 48 hours.

Mr. Fiske resided here for many years. He was the first secretary of the chamber of commerce and one of the projectors and proprietors of the Commercial Review. By his gentlemanly qualities he endeared himself to all who came in contact with him. We believe he was a native of New Hampshire. He was the inventor of some valuable improvements in tanning.

THE BARBACUE AT LEBANON .- The opening of the Lebanon Branch of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad through to Lebanon, will be celebrated to morrow by a grand harbarene at Lebanon, to which our citizens generally are invited. The people of that section of our State are celebrated for their whole-hearted hospitality and will unonestionably make this celebration an agreeable and elegant affair. The road runs through a country that is a terra incognita to many of our citizens and they should not lose this opportunity to see it upon an occasion of rejoicing. Let the delegation from Louisville be a large one, and show to the vicinage of Lebanon and New Haven that their hospitality is appreciated and their good feeling reciprocated by the people of Louisville. From an advertisement in our paper it will be seen that the trip will be made in one day and it will undoubtedly be a delightful excursion to all who go.

THE HOG MARKET .- Messrs. Atkinson, Thomas, & Co. killed 800 hogs yesterday, and Messrs. Jarvis received thus far. We could hear of no contracts. There are buvers however at $5 net, cash. A good many hogs are expected in during the latter part of the week, and if the weather is favorable all the houses will commence operations next week.

SERIOUS ILLNESS OF THE EARL OF ABERDEEN . Among the items of news brought by the Arabia we find intelligence of the alarming illness of Lord Aberdeen, which is causing much anxiety to his friends. His complaint is obstruction of the bowels. Lord Aberdeen has long been quite prominent n British politics.

When the steamer National left New Orleans on the evening of the 9th, some one on board fired a pistol in a crowd on shore, wounding a man in the side dangeronsly. The perpetrator of this outrage was handed over to the proper authorities.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS

The river is falling quite rapidly. In the twentyfour hours ending last evening it had receded 10 inches, leaving 7 feet water over the fells on the rocks and 101/2 feet water in the canal.

For New Orleans .- The E. H. Fairchild, Captain Fawcett, will leave for New Orleans this evening. She is an A No. 1 craft. Mr. Leyden, a very excellent gentleman, has charge of the office. The Fairchild is lying at Strader's wharf.

The new steamer Comet, of which we gave a description last week, will leave for Camden, on the Ouachita river, to-day, taking freight and passengers for all points on the Mississippi river as far down as Natchez. The Comet is commanded by Capt. Jennings, and Mr. Elliott is the clerk.

Capt. J. Jeff. Stewart telegraphed from St. Louis yesterd my that his splendid steamer, the Republic will be here on Friday and leave this port for New Orleans on Monday next.

Capt. Charles F. Reynolds contemplates starting with the Virginia for New Orleans on Wednesday next.

For St. Louis .- The Statesman, which has always been a favorite craft in the St. Louis trade, will commence making regular trips to-day. She has been laid up for some months, and during that time has undergone thorough repairs and has been newly painted and furnished.

The John Gault is here yet. Capt. Bunce informs us that he will leave certainly at 2 o'clock to-day. The W. A. Eaves is the packet for Owensbero this

Three Tennessee packets are at the whaif and advertised to leave for that river to-day. They are the R. M. Patton, Time, and Wm. Knox. Last evening a fourth came over the falls-the William Dixon. She has been laid up at Portland. We are indebted to the Time for a copy of the manifest.

The H. D. Newcomb will doubtless pass Men. phis to-day. She will be due here on Friday night. The Antelope, a capital boat, in command of Capt. Bealer, will leave for New Orleans on Saturday. The new and excellent Green river packet Brace et will leave for Green river to-day. The Telegraph Na. 3 is the mailboat for Cincinati to-day.

Steumer North Stur Sunk .- Capt. Haslep's sterrwheeler North Star was sunk on Saturday night last at the mouth of Big Black river. She recently entered the Memphis and White river trade. She was owned by Capt. Haslep and parties at Pittsburg and insured there. The following we copy from the New Orleans

The steamer Metacomet, Capt. Chysno, which has been lying up near McDonoghville since her return from Vera Cruz, sprang a leak on Monday night last and sunk in the stream. The unfortunate vessel lies in deep water, partly careened over and with only a portion of her bow above the surface. A schooner was alongside yesterday afternoon, but we did not learn what was done in the way of her relief.

A few weeks since, some of the citizens of Pontotoc county, Miss., hung a man named Jefferson Gray. During the late term of the court, Judge Harris laid the matter especially before the grand jury, who reported their inability to obtain any evidence sufficient to identify or find indictment against any one charged in the hanging. Judge Harris, however, remarks the Examiner of the 30th ult., "not being disposed in such a lenient manner to wink at or tolerate the proceedings of Judge Lyuch, of whom he seemed to be particularly jealous, refused to discharge the grand jury until they should more fully investigate the matter, and ordered that the evidence which had been or could be obtained by them on the subject should be reported in writing to the Court and spread upon the initutes. Since then the grand jury have been diligently en gaged in the further investigation of the matter, an in a buggy, and was on his return when his horse, a til yesterday, when they brought into Court some Sappho, the Greek poetess, called the "Tenth Muse." The residence of Mr. Bridgeforth, being constructed of wood, was lifted up by the tornado and moved some thirty or forty yards, without destroying the honse. Two of his negroes were killed. M. T. Greer had a negro killed and two badly injured. Mr. Leslie's bedding and bedclothes were found hanging on the stunips and tops of trees for a considerable distance off. The residence and kitchen of Dr. Thomas were all that was left standing. At one place some seventy-five stacks of fodder and a stable blew down, burying a number of mules and horses, several of which were killed. Not a gin, quarter, or fence was left standing in its track. Bndd King's place shared

A grand ball has been given by the officers of the frigate Niagara to the elite of the inhabitants of Plymouth and its neighborhood. We learn that the Niagara was to have left Plymonth on the 5th inst., so that she may be expected at New York about the 20th. The last mile of the cable was discharged on the morning of the 29th ult., but the arrangements & Co. killed about 200, which were all that had been for its reception next spring have been left untonch ed, so that she will be ready when she returns to England to commence taking it on board. the same fate.

A horrible tragedy transpired in New Orleans on the 9th. A negro trader named George Stovall murdered a woman named Mary Durand, with whom he had been living, and then jumped into a well, but there was not water enough in it to drown himself and he was rescned and arrested.

Mr. Samuel Jones's tanner shop, in Grassy Valley, Harrison county, Ind., was destroyed by fire on Tuesday night last. A large quantity of tar ners' tools, hides, and leather were burnt.

The Mound City Emporium mentions the drowning of a cabin passenger on the J. W. Cheesman named P. Riley, who sprang overboard at that place. The same paper states that a flathout captain named Johnston, who resides below the falls, threw overboard his cook, a boy fourteen years of age, and when the boy attempted to save himself by getting into a skiff hurled an ax at him-which luckily miss him. The crew then interceded for the boy, pacified the captain, and he was taken or board.

FATAL RENCOUNTER .- A difficulty occurred in the porthern part of Harrison county, Ind., on the 14th inst., between John Nelson and his nephew Jack Nelson, in which the latter was shot through the body. John Nelson immediately gave himself up, was tried, and recognised to appear to answer the charge of mnrder.

The regular monthly English steamer Solent sailed for Southampton via Havana on the 4th, with $58,961 69 silver, and $6,378 in gold coin.

The American bark Flash also sailed on the 4th for New York, with $23,252 25 in silver. Also, on the 1st inst., for Hamburg, the Danish brig Catherine, with $6,752 in gold coin.

The general news is important. The political guarantees of the new constitution have been suspended, as proposed, and President Comenfort again clothed with dictatorial powers; on what precise terms and for what length of time was not known at latest advices. The first vote, which was taken on the 30th, in secret session, was on the general proposition, and stood 72 to 31. The terms of the dictatorship were to come up for consideration next that the first vote, whether the demands of the Executive were granted in whole or in part, though from a dispatch received at Vera Cruz it would seem that nothing had been settled.

The new Secretary of the Interior, Juarez, and confessed'y the most important man in the new cabinet, whether we consider his office, his personal character or his influence, reached the capital the evening of the 31st. Multitudes of people went ont of the city to meet him, and his entry into the same was almost a triumphal one. Sr. Juarez, who, we believe, is an Indian of pure blood, has always been an extreme radical in politics. He is annountedly a man of eminent talent and acquirements, as he is a statesman of large experience, having held many important offices. He is the author of the law "Juarez."

The other members of the new cabinet have been well received. Their installation was very timely, and, as expected, proved favorable in its influence upon the demand for its extraordinary powers.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOV. 18, 1857.

HUSBAND AND WIFE CONVICTED OF MURDER AND SENTENCED TO BE HANGED.—A somewhat remarkable and excluing murder trial has just been concluded in London, Canada. The defendants were a man named Neil Beaton and his wife, who were accused of murdering with poison a Mr. Enssell, the late husband of Mrs. Beaton.

The trial only occupied one day, but in that vicinity seems to have excited about as much interest as that of Madeline Smith, in Scotland. For some time after the death of Russell there was no suspicion against the accused, but circumstances gradually accumulated of a suspicious character, the chief of which was the marriage of the parties soon after the death of Russell.

The accused belong to what is generally called "the more respectable classes of society," which fact gives the effair additional interest. Bearon, the husband, is described as a young man about 26 years of age, and rather prepossessing in appearance. Mrs. Beaton is about 38 years of age, not handsome, but of respectable appearance.

There was no direct proof of their guilt, but they were convicted on circumstantial evidence. There was every reason to suppose that the prisoners indulged in illicit love during the lifetime of Russell, a that this supplied a motive for the commission of the crime, and which motive was rendered more apparent by the marriage of Beaton to Mrs. Russell a few days after the death of her husband. Certain remarks made by Beaton, in conversation, apparently in anticipation of Russell's death, were also strongly against them, as also was a question asked by Mrs. Beaton, previously to Russell's death, relative to the properties of arsenic; and also, the fact of her leaving her bed at the dead of night to talk to Beaton privately; the fact of her being seen giving the deceased something to drink under suspicious circumstances, and her unfeeling conduct while her husband was on the point of death, and other facts, together with the proof, brought out by a post-mor tem examination of the deceased, that he had died of poison, pointed to the accused as the murderers, the woman having administered the poison, and Beaton being her accomplice.

The jury, after being ont several hours, returned a verdict of guilty, according to circumstantial evidence, and they have both been sentenced to be hanged.

THE NEW ARCTIC EXPEDITION - Letter from Capt. McClintock-Progress of the Expedition-Meeting with the Family of Hans, Dr. Kane's Hunter.—The New York Journal of Commerce . ays:

We have before us, in mannscript, a letter from Capt. F. L. McClintock, commanding the Arctic expedition recently sent out by Lady Franklin. The last date is "Off Baal's River," Greenland. More recent advices, however, have been received, which left him at Lively, Greenland, on the 4th of August, all well. He was preparing to leave, as the nee was making fast. But to the letter:

"My Dear Lady Franklin: As there is an opportunity of writing to Europe, before the usual October vessels, I gladly subrace it to let you know how we have got on hitherto. Our escape from Aberdeen was followed by a long run of success. In the Pentland Firth on the morning of the 3d of July, we record Penny (and several whalter) in an unusual Pentland Firth on the morning of the 3d of July, we passed Penny (and several whalter) in an unusually rapid style—they were soon out of sight attern. Ten days of delightful weather brought us to Cape Farewell (in sight of it), and then being breatmed, I used steam for the first time since leaving Scotland for a few hours.

"We now had several days of fogs and calms, yet made tolerable progress, unimpeded by ice until the 17th. On that day we met with vast quantities of a very heavy description, known as Spitzbergen ice; the wind also began to blow a gale from the northwest. Being now only 40 miles from Frederickshaab, which is the principal settlement in South Greenland, I determined to force through the ice and go into that port. After running for several hours go into that port. After running for several hours through it, and getting occasional hard knocks, which made our bell ring and proved the soundness of our vessel, the ice became so closely packed, and the fog so thick, that we could sail no farther. I then tried steam, and after frequent stoppages and an anxious night we got through all the ice, and found ourselves in comparatively clear water near the shore. This I had expected; but I had also heard that the few would have been contined to the hop d that the for would have been confined to the immediate vicinity of the ice. In this I was disappointed, nor were we able to see land until the evening, when it all cleared off and revealed the most beautiful sight I have seen for a very long time. A lofty and bold coast line fringed with countless is lets—far in the interior the mountain peaks noreared lets—far in the interior the mountain peaks noreared themselves, and a glacier about ten miles in width sloped down to the sea shore.

"Early on Sunday morning, the 19th, we anchored off the quiet little settlement of Julianshaah, to the astonishment of the natives. Prince Napoleon visited this place last summer, and in the year 1837 a French ship-of-war came here. I cannot ascertain that they have ever had any other visitors, excepting, of course, the annual Danish ship.

"You are, I suppose, wondering what induced me to come in here. I will now explain. On the passage out, one of my best men, Michael Lewis, was selzed with an alarming amount of spitting of blood. It occurred a second time, and upon inquiry I found that he had been attacked similarly last win-

I found that he had been attacked similarly last win-ter. Notwithstanding cod liver oil and every care he soon began to lose strength, so finding from Peterson that there would be a Danish ship at this place, I came here on purpose to obtain a passage home for him by the first vessel. We found a vessel home for him by the first vessel. We found a vessel here, but she is not the first to sail, so having got an order for his passage from Dr. Kirk, the Inspector of South Greenland, I intend sailing this evening for Goodhaab (Baal's river) where I hope to meet the vessel which is now about to sail for Copenhagen. I will write to the English consul at that place about him. There is a fixed charge for the passage, which will be paid by the consul at Copenhagen, and from there he will be sent home as a distressed British subject. This is the best arrangetressed British subject. This is the best arrange-ment I can make for him, as he will get home be-fore autumn, which would not be the case if I was to put him on board a whaler; moreover it is doubtful whether we shall see them. Lewis was with me in the Enterprise, and subsequently he served in the Phenix. He is a very steady and fine looking young man, of 29 years of age. Nothing could have been more unexpected than his break-down.

we have consumed 83 tons since leaving Aberdeen), and I am getting a considerable quantity of codfish, which the natives catch for us at about a shilling a dozen. I am having them packed in casks in ice for the crew. I have also got some plank here, that we were in want of.

"Dr. Walker has been very busy making collections of botany and geology, and we have got some very interesting specimens of criolite, and other minerals from the Danes residing here.

"We are a perfect Polar-man-of-war in our system, and nothing can work better. All are most zealous, efficient, and cheerful.

"Tuesday Evening.— The captain of the Danish vessel Peru, now at Fredericksbaab, is the same who picked up Kane and his crew at Upernavick, in 1855, and brought them to Disco. We started un-1855, and brought them to Disco. We started under steam, in a thick fog, and are now under the guidance of a native pilot, a brother of Haro, the Esquimaux, who was so useful to Kane, and who absconded so romantically from him. 'The Hans family' are all most anxious to get him back again. This morning, Dr. Kirk started for the next settlement to the south, about 140 miles off, in an Oomiak, or skin boat. It looked so odd to see the dignified Inspector scated in state, with a large Danish flag waving over him, a grim old Esquimaux pilot steering, and six meek young Esquimaux ladies rowing! Mediums and Ink. - The following analysis of the Mediums and The. — The following analysis of the manner in which spiritual music is sometimes produced occurred a few days since in Lowell. The Vox Populi says: "The celebrated 'Davenport mediums,' who have been performing here for the last two weeks such wonderful tricks as drawing music from various instruments without touching them, were ontwitted, a day or two since, by a printer of this city. The two boy mediums were tied hands and feet, and put into a dark (of course!) place with the instruments, the whole arrangement being first examined by the spectators. Now, on this occasion, the said printer was a visitor, and he had been led to apply a little private test for his own satisfaction. the said printer was a visitor, and he had been led to apply a little private test for his own satisfaction. He took along with him a very little printing ink, which is as tenacions as wheel-grease, and marked therewith the instruments. The performance went on; the mediums were firmly tied and bound to their seats, to convince the audience that they could not touch the instruments; then came the darkness; then instrumental music by the spirits; then the manager said, 'Let there be light,' and the mediums were unbonned and came forth—each with fingers well bedaubed with printer's ink."

A teacher of one of the Sunday Schools was lecturing a class of little girls on the influence of pious instruction in the formation of youthful character. Unable to account for it, he rose, donned his dressing gown, and, with his candle in his hand, proceeded to investigate the cause. Halfway down stairs he perceived a large rat employed in facilitating the descent of a half loaf by pushing it down from one step to another. Anxious to redeem his property, the owner descended after it. The rat at first continued his extraors but as the enemy rained upon him he chargedescended after it. The rat at first continued his exertions, but as the enemy gained upon him he changed his tactics, and turning his front upwards began to climb towards his opponent. This was just such an intruder as might with all justice have been kicked down stairs; but so stern was his air and so menacing his aspect, that the gentleman hesitated, and hesitation ended in retreat. His feet being armed only with slippears, be lost heart and began slowly to ascend backwards; while the rat deliberately mounted after him, and thus steadily drove rately mounted after him, and thus steadily him back to his bedroom, the door of which he shut in the face of his foe, and terminated the adventure by retiring to bod, while the rat returned to his well-

A Human Hair Fair—Women Bringing their Tresses to Market.—Very few of our gentle readers, probably, ever heard of or imagined such a thing as a Human Hair Fair. As few, perhaps, ever thought of inquiring into the source of the beautiful tresses which are seen every day in those armories of Venus, the windows of the hairdressers. We are reminded, however, by a late French paper, that this is the season for the annual hair fair at Morlaas, in the lower Pyrcuses, in France. Morlaas is near the city of Pan, and it is from a Pau journal that we derive some account of the fair the present season. The hair dealers were crowding into the place from the place from Toplays, and all points, from Toulouse, and even Bordeaux; and the young pensant girls of the neighborhood, famous for their fine and abundant heads of hair, were flocking to the market like sheep, to be shorn of their locks for the adorament of other and prouder heads. Even young husbands accompany their expectations in the strength of the stre wives, to insist upon their despoiling themselves, for a triding consideration, of their beautiful heads of hair. Twenty francs is the highest price which is given for the richest head of hair, and a majority of the damsels part with their locks for a tenth part of

This singular market is held in the open street, and attracts crowds of curions as well as interested persons. Girls are seen to be sheared in public, while others are waiting their turn with their caps in their hands, and their long hair combed out and hanging down to their waists. The shearers are men as well as women. Some of our fair readers will conclude that this must be a degrading scene. But how else could the stock of wigs, and frizettes and bands, and top-pieces, and curls which is need and to proper the tottering beauty of the sex be supplied? Tons of black silken hair, sheared in the manner above described, from the heads of the peasant damsels in the south of France, are important ted to in this country annually.

There are fairs in other places in the south of There are fairs in other places in the south of France and Brittany, where adventurous virtnosos buy up and shear the crops of the fair-haired damsels. At first blush, it would seem that female vanity would effectually prevent such a traffic as this. But cupidity and indolence are stronger passions than vanity; and fashion even lends its aid to this singular custom of parting with the finest ornament to the person which nature affords.

In Brittany particularly, where the finest and most silken black hair is procured, it is the universal fashion, from childhood upwards, to wear caps so close as completely to conceal the hair. The peasant girls there have particularly fine hair, and in the greatest abundance. It is so common as not in the greatest abundance. It is so common as not to be a mark of beauty; and the people are morally incapable of appreciating it as intrinsically beautiful and attractive. It is a truth which ought not to be told, periaps, in the presence of all our ladies, that the charming frizettes and tresses which beautify the heads of our blooming belles may possibly have been shorn from Breton damsels of very filthy and loathsome habits.

The Bretons are neither Normans nor French, but more Welsh, then anything else; and they are wild

The Bretons are neither Normans nor French, but more Welsh than anything else; and they are wild and savage, and us idle and dirty as human nature can well be and exist. The poorer women wear their dresses till they become dirty, patched, tattered, and ragged, so that the material of which they are made can be scarcely traced. The houses of the peasants are generally built of mud and without convenience. The chestunt, which abounds in the country, furnishes, to a considerable extent, the food of the poorer classes. Although inhabiting a fine country, capable of rendering them prosperous and wealthy, the Bretons grovel on in supine idleness and dirt. No wonder the women sell their hair, which is abundant and marketable. The people are accustomed to subsist upon the products of spontaaccustomed to subsist upon the products of sponta-neous crops. In the Pyrenecs, the people are indus-trious and frugal, and the women are accustomed to regard a fine head of black or dark brown hair as only a luxurious burden.

ENGINES WORKED BY ETHER. - M. Tissott, engineer of some standing, has communicated to the French Academy of Sciences the description of an engine entirely worked by the expansive power of ether. The combination of this power with that of s long been tried on a large scale with an parently good effect, nevertheless it is attended with certain inconveniences which more that balance its advantages. M. Tissott, therefore, endeavored to climinate steam altogether, by mixing two litres of an essential oil of any kind except oil of turpentine with the ether. The boiler is encircled with a warwith the ether. The boiler is encircled with a water-bath; moreover, each time that the ether is reconducted to the boiler it is made to pass through a thin stratum of olive oil. The boiler is filled to a certain depth with water, in which a small quantity of soda (one gramme per litre) has been dissolved. The ether, in passing through the oil in a state of vapor, carries some particles of this oil with it; and the latter, coming in contact with the soda, is converted to soap.

This double action produces an excellent effect, since the soapy substance in question acts as a pre-servative on the various parts of the engine, which ter, or such a prevalence of northwesterly winds during spring. I believe we shall find all this in our favor, at least as far as crossing Baffin's Bay is concerned.

We have gained time upon Inglefield; he left Fiskernaan on the evening of the 23d July, therefore, I am 16½ days in advance. My present intention is to visit Pond's Bay, before proceeding farther, and gather there all possible information.

GETTING OVER A DIFFICULTY.—A class which graduated not over a thousand years ago, embraced among its members one Tom Elliott, an incorrigible wag, who was not noted for any particular marked attention to his studies. Mathematics was a particular object of Tom's disregard, and this caused him an occasional jeu d'esprit with the dry professors of conics. On one occasion the professor, during the recitation, asked Tom to explain the horizontal parallax of the sun.

Tom replied, "I do not know how."

"But," said the professor, "suppose you were appointed by the government to ascertain it what would you de?"

This is a nurely vegetable compound, prepared on strictly scientiffs, trinciples, after the mauner of the celebrated Holland Fr. fessor, Buerhave, Because of its great success in most of the European States, its introduction into the United States was intended more especially for those of our fatherland scattered leve and there over the face of the mighty country. Meeting with great encess among them, I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

it truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

It Is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutions may have been impaired by the continuous use of ardent spirite, or other forms of dissipation. Generally instantaneous in itseffect, it finds its way directly to the seat of life, thrilling and quickening every nerve, raising up the drooping spirit, and, in fact, infusing new health and visor in the system.

NOTIC?—Whoever expects to find this a beverage will be disappointed; but 10 the sick, weak, and low spirited it will prove a grateful aromatic cordial, possessed of singular remedial properties.

CAUTION.

The great popularity of this delightful Aroma has induced many imitations, which the public should guard against purchasing. Police Proceedings - Wednesday, Nov. 18 .-The lobbies and room were crowded this morning in anticipation of hearing the examination of Coleman, who killed Hopwood last evening. All the witnes ses had not been summoned, and the case was laid over till to-morrow. Coleman's christian name is Augustus, and Gustavus, and not Hopwood had a family-a wife and child.

The cases brought before the Conrt were of little importance. John Hancock and Edward Burke were charged with drunkenness and riotous conduct and required to give bail in $100 to answer and in $200 to be of good behavior for three months.

Charles Lovley, drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Bail in $100 for one month.

James Kelly was charged with stealing a coat and pair of pantaloons from Peter Cooney. His case was continued.

James Kimball was arraigned for drunkenness and abusing his family, but, as he resides out of the city limits, he was turned over to a magistrate. Several ordinance warrants were then disposed of.

B. B. Connor, for firing a gun, was fined $4. Isaac Williamson, standing his wagon on Market street, tody and Thomas Lowry, standing his hack on Main street, were fined $5 each. Michael Bolton and Patrick McMeekin, two scavengers, creating a nuisance, were fined $5 each. Mary Bolton, selling after market hours, was fined $10. Mrs. Werner, having a frame building put up in violation of an ordinance, was fined 850.

The Montreal Commercial Advertiser says that the amount of damage done by the recent freshet in the township bordering upou the State of New York, between the St. Lawrence and Lake Champlain, is swept away or seriously damaged; much injury has been done to mills and dams, and large quantities of produce destroyed in barns and stacks. The water in the Chateauguay, Trout, and other rivers rising in the New York mountains rose to a height never before witnessed, and overflowing their banks submerging miles of the flat country. Cattle were drowned in the stables, houses were flooded to the depth of several feet, the inhabitants being driven to the upper stories, and all communications were cut off for several days.

[For the Louisville Journal.] PUBLIC MEETING.

At a public meeting held at the court-house in Shelhy-ville, Ky., November 9, 1857, to consider the present financial embarrassment of the State, T. O. Shackelford was elected chairman and H. A. Chinn socretary.

On motion, a committee, composed of Gaid Davis, Thos. W. Brown, Benj. C. Stephens, F. Neel, and Joseph L. Isay, was appointed to draft resolutions, who, after retiring to consult, proposed the following, which were manimously adopted:

Resolved, That we recommend to the banks liberal accommodation loans—in other words, to do their regular business in losuing money—resuming their usual line of discounts; and should suspension be the result of this liberal pollcy, we piedge ourselves to the extent of our influence to sustain the credit of the banks and its issues, and to procure legislative acts saving them hereafter from any such suspension.

Resolved. That we recognize in this measure the only prospect of immediate relief, and that the producing classes of the country imperatively require either this measure of relief or some other adequate to the emergency, in order to save the farmer, the mechanic, and the laborer from ruinous embarrassment.

Resolved. That in view of the derangement of the cursave the farmer, the mechanic, and the laborer from ruinous embarrassment.

Resolved, That in view of the derangement of the enrency, the peruniary pressure that retards trade, and the general embarrassment of the country, we recommend to the ensuing Legislature, a hill authorising a suspension of the Banks of Kentucky of speele payment, for such a length of time, and on such conditions, as will guard the people from undue expansion on the one hand, and a sudden contraction on the other, and will also guaranty the solvency of said lustitutions.

Resolved. That the citizens in the various sections of this state to requested to hold meetings to take into consideration the present financial embarrassments in this State.

That the editors of the Shelbwille Norse

State. Resolved. That the editors of the Sheibyville News. Louisville Journal, Louisville Democrat, and Courier, and all other papers published in this State, to requested to publish the proceedings of this meeting.

[From this morning's Journal.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. The War Department to-day received highly interesting official dispatches, including a proclamation of Brigham Young, declaring martial law. He claims the right to do so, in virtue of his authority as Governor of the Territory and Superintendent of Indian affairs, not having been suspended from exercising his functions; and in virtue of his power reader the territorial expensionation. nder the territorial organization, he especially forbids the United States troops entering the territory without his authority.

He complains that the Mormons have not been treated as Americau citizens; that the Government has acted on misrepresentations, the object being to drive the people from the territory. The language is emphatically in Postility to the anthority of the United States, and is here regarded as a declaration of war.

When Col. Alexander was within thirty miles of Fort Bridges, which place is occupied by Mormon troops, he received a letter from Brigham Young, through the commander of the Nauvoo legion, warning the troops out of the territory, but saying if they desire to remain until spring they may do so, provided they give up their arms and anmunition, but they must then leave within the time mentioned. He will see that they are furnished with provisions.

The latter was accompanied by two copses of the proclamation and a copy of the laws of Utah. The commander tells Col. Alexander that he is at the fort to carry out Young's instructions, and expresses a hope that Alexander's answers and actions will be dictated by proper respect for the rights and liberties of American citizens. Alexander in his reply, [Oct. 2d] says: "I have given your communication attentive consideration and will submit the letter to the General commanding as soon as he arrives here. attentive consideration and will submit the letter to the General commanding as soon as he arrives here. Imeaning at Camp Warfield on Ham's Fork], in the meantime, I have to say that these troops are here by order of the President of the United States, and their further movements will depend entirely upon orders issued by competent authority.

Among the occuments is a letter from Col. Konston, dated "Camp of Free Winds, on Sweet Water, addressed to Assistant Adjutant General McDowell, New York," in which he confirms the burning of the contractor's trains by the Mermons. He says the Governor's escort is four day's march behind him, with two companies of drogoons.

Governor's escort is four day's march behind him, with two companies of drogoons.

He knows of no reason why Alexander should attempt to reach Salt Lake by rear river, excepting from fear that the Mormons have burned the grass on the shorter route. He adds: "If I could communicate with Col. Alexander, I would direct him to take up a good position for the winter at Ham's Fork. The road is beset between this and Ham's Fork with companies of Mormons, so that it is doubtful whether I shall be able to communicate with Alexander."

It is supposed at the War Department that the troops are all in good condition, as nothing is said to the contrary in the dispatches to the Secretary.

The Indian Bureau has received advices that the Indians in Oregon and Washington territories are in comfertable condition, but considerable confusion had arisen in consequence of contracts for supplies, owing principally to the credit system.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17. The correspondent of the Times says that Lord Napier in behalf of his government, and Count Sartiges, under special instructions from the government of France, are prepared to enter into au arrangement with Yrissari for the guaranty of neutrality to the Transit Route similar to those entered into but the Luized States. They have already con-into by the United States. They have already conferred with Yrissari, and will follow up the action of our government as soon as consummated. The Trionne's Washington correspondent says the Cabinet will consider to-morrow the propriety of a thorough investigation of the conduct of the officials at New Orleans, in permitting the escape of Walker's expedition, after its publication. A purpose is expressed in some quarters of removing those found guilty.

FROM THE PLAINS.—Mr. Lander, who is connected as chief engineer with Magraw's Wagon Road Survey, passed through this city on his way to Washington on Saturday last.

This gentleunan has performed, since the 15th day of June last, the unprecedented feat of riding 4,400 miles, much of the distance in unexplored mountain passes, and all in rough field service, without a tent, or ordinary baggage, in the short space of four and a half months, including eighteen camp days.

The Mormons having burned all the grass on the southern wintering grounds, the Wagon Road expedition has selected a camp on Wind river. It is surrounded by herds of buffalo and elk, with which, in event of fallure of other means of subsistence, the trair may be supplied.

B. F. Ficklin, one of the assistant engineers of the advance party, who had distinguished himself in detached service, had been detained by Mr. Lander at the request of Superintendent Magraw, to purchase flower and whose previous for the train in Lander at the request of Superintendent Magraw, to purchase flower and whose previous for the train Lander and the request of Superintendent Magraw, to purchase flower and whose previous for the train Lander and the request of Superintendent Magraw, to purchase flower and whose previous for the train Lander and the superintendent Magraw, to purchase flower and whose previous for the train Lander and the superintendent Magraw, to purchase flower and whose previous for the train Lander and the superintendent Magraw, to purchase flower and the superintendent Magraw, to purchase flower and whose previous for the train Lander at the request of Superintendent Magraw, to purchase flower and whose previous for the train Lander at the request of Superintendent Magraw, to purchase flower and whose previous for the train Lander at the request of Superintendent Magraw, to purchase flower and the super detached service, had been detained by Mr. Lander at the request of Superintendeut Magraw, to purchase flour and other provisions for the train. In performing this duty, he was surrounded, near Green river, by sixty well armed mounted Mormons. He gave them evasive answers as to the nature of his business, and was at length allowed to depart. He rode at ence to the command of Col. Alexander, many miles distant, and informed that gentleman of the advance of the mounted armed men, and of the rumors that five hundred had crossed Green river, going in the direction of unprotected Government trains, but before any escort was sent, three trains, embracing seventy-six wagons, were three trains, embracing seventy-six wagons, were reached and completely destroyed by the party of sixty men first seen. From the destruction of these trains of provisions, the Eastern monutaineers were disposed to hold articles of sub-sistence at a hig price. Flour was thirty dollars a hundred at Platte Bridge one hundred and twenty-five miles beyond disposed to hold articles of sub sistence at a hig price. Flour was thirty dollars a hundred at Platre Bridge, one hundred and twenty-five miles beyond Fort Laramie, and rising; and a general belief prevailed in the country that hostilities were commenced. The military forces were in high spirits, and, though traveling with every prospect of enduring great hardships, enthusiastic to a man, and prepared for the worst.

The explorations of the advance party of the Wagon Road Expedition had proved of great service to the command. The entire region between the Salt Lake and Snake river, the South Pass and Thousand Spring Valley, connecting the work of Stanbury and Fremont, and hitherto unexplored, had been surveyed and mapped, sixteen mountain passes examined, all the tributaries of the upper Green river defined to their sources, the great Wahsatach chain found to consist of sixteen distinct ranges. Numerous supplies of grass, wood, and ranges. Numerous supplies of grass, wood, and water had been discovered, and various wagon routes, two of which avoid the Grand Desert of the sandy, and one seven days' shorter travel in a distance of five hundred miles, thun any previously known. These may be mentioned as some of the results of the explorations. The military force had, therefore, abaudoned the old line of approach, and were advancing upon the valley of the Loke by the open plains of the western descent of the Bear and Malade rivers.

When Mr. L. informed Gov. Countings of the Malade rivers.

When Mr. L. informed Gov. Cummings of the commencement of Mormon disturbances by the destruction of Government trains, being the first to bring this intelligence, Gov. C. quietly remarked, "Tell all my friends, sir, the 1 started to obey instructions and to go into Salt Lake City, and I am going."

Brigham Young had aiready disclaimed any par ticipation or knowledge of the overt act of burning the snpply trains, and the best judges of the Mor-mon character believe that the leaders of this siugular society will contiune to endeavor to blind the eyes of the General Government and put off the day of a stand-up tight to the last moment. On the other hand, old monutaineers are predicting the most disastrous consequences if the troops are not able to fight their way into the city. The grass burued, the forage well nigh eaten up, winter setting in with several deep snows, much of the command far in the rear, and a great range of monntains shutting it out from the northern winnering grounds, all seem to give wei, but to the supposition that the expedition will not be a successful one. Cache Valley, which is an open, well grassed plain, in which are several Mormon farms, and over which gular society will continue to endeavor to blind the in which are several Mormon farms, and over which roam great herds of cattle and horses, the proper-of the Church, will soon, however, be within striking distance of the command.
